Spina Bifida kitten Timmy

We received a call that a small kitten had been found in a park and was injured.
Here is his story...
His exam

• The kitten was surrendered to our care and taken to our vet clinic: Basinview Animal Hospital www.basinviewanimalhospital.com

• There, the hospital team examined the kitten and xrayed him to make sure there weren’t any broken bones.
His hospital stay

• The kitten was kept at the clinic for observation and in no time had wrapped his paws around the hearts of the staff.

• The staff named him Tiny Tim... or Timmy for short!
Such a good little patient!
Timmy’s exam

• Timmy’s exam included xrays to make sure he didn’t have any fractures or broken bones.

• The “injury” turned out to be a twisted spine, likely a birth defect. It was decided that Timmy would be taken to see a veterinary neurologist to assess the situation with his spine.
Timmy’s trip

• Timmy was an excellent traveller for the 2-hour car ride ... and seemed very curious about his adventure!
Timmy’s car ride!
Timmy liked the hotel!
And he got to play in the shower!
Timmy’s appt with Dr. Aubrey Webb

After a 2-hour exam, Dr. Webb’s findings were that Timmy has Spina Bifida.
We remain positive that Timmy will continue to gain strength and will do well.

We have been contacted by others who have given us examples of success stories that encourage us to remain positive and hopeful.
In the meantime
Timmy’s amazing spirit and personality
continue to inspire us.

He is a happy kitten
that loves to run and play...
and his continuous purr
melts our hearts!
